Product description

In Côtes-d'Armor in Brittany, Côte de granit rose is one of the most popular islands: the island of Bréhat, known as the "Island of Flowers", because the mild oceanic climate is particularly conducive to the development of an abundance of flowers (agapanthus, hydrangeas, ...) and more generally plants and trees, some of which are tropical, will amaze you with their adaptation to Brittany. Enjoy the beauty.

I visit this island several times a year...a magical place...for everyone...especially for painters. In every part of this island you can enjoy the beauty of nature. And ... show this beauty in paintings. On the painting we see a field of agapanthus. Love this place...especially in the afternoon light.
