Product description

Built in 1850 by the parishioners as an offering to the Virgin Mary after a cholera epidemic, this chapel was the place of pilgrimage for half a century for the Newfoundlanders as well as the fishermen in Iceland.

A small chapel by the side of the road. I pass quite often. She is very beautiful... against the background of the sky... sometimes blue, sometimes the color of steel. This time I painted it from the parking lot side...it's just as impressive.
