Product description

The site of the Plougrescant chasm attracts the world for several reasons. The chasm is impressive during strong tides and strong winds. The sound of the waves crashing down on the rocks rumbles in your ears! It is a site with wild landscapes, indeed, the coastal landscape, composed of lagoons and eroded rock formations called "granite chaos", is breathtaking. Nature lovers, you will love it! Plougrescant is known for the postcard that has gone around the world and which represents a small stone house built and set between two huge blocks of granite. A few steps from the abyss, this place is private property. My painting shows this house. I did it in the afternoon. It is an extremely picturesque place. Granite rocks have all shades of pink ... There is a reason this region is called Côte de Granit Rose.
