Product description

The parish church of Saint-Colomban in Tréveneuc. A painting created in the morning, in spring, on the grounds of the Château de Pommorio in Tréveneuc. It is rendered in a range of green hues. The church dates back to the 18th century; only a small fragment of the 15th-century transept has been preserved. In the background of the painting, a couple can be seen strolling, leaving the château gardens and heading toward the church.

The picture is framed in a white wooden frame and glass
